

The California Association of Local Agency Formation Commissions is proud to present an all new CALAFCO University Course

Agriculture & Open Space

Mitigation Policy, Practices and Definitions

A Workshop for LAFCo Staff, Consultants and Commissioners

A PRACTICAL WORKSHOP

The Golden State - California is one of the most agriculturally productive regions in the world. Not surprisingly, agriculture is also a vital local economic engine. This class will present examples of how and what LAFCo can do - given its charge by the Legislature to encourage orderly growth and development while balancing the sometimes competing state interests of discouraging urban sprawl, preserving open-space and prime agricultural lands, and efficiently extending government services.

EXPERIENCED INSTRUCTORS

Kris Berry, Course Moderator; Executive Officer, Placer LAFCo

Terry Huff, District Conservationist, Alameda Resource Conservation District

Elizabeth Kemper, Executive Officer, Yolo LAFCo

Ken Price, Legal Counsel, Fresno LAFCo
